Governments have to create an environment whereby national economic development can offset and eradicate the existence of the drug trade. The UNDCP should work closely with individual governments to develop and implement in-country plans and programmes.

Governments like Uruguay, Switzerland and the Czech Republics said this amount. The Government is actively seeking to make farming and other business ventures more available and attractive to its youth. Drug control must devise a strategy on income that avoids locking successive generations of urban poor into criminal activity. Condition: New. Results of the expert group consultation During an international expert network began discussions to advance the monitoring and evaluation of best practice in drug-related interventions in Europe. A comprehensive shared policy reassessment and a new consensus on the balance between approaches emphasising law enforcement and approaches emphasising alternative development and harm reduction are urgently required.
