PoetryofLifeandLove. Fire in the Void. Hogarth usually creates her own covers, but prefers to collaborate for the interiors—generally choosing the title typeface and requesting loose leading for a luxurious feel. After over a year, the serialization of the book is done. However, when Dorian SudlerissenttoRBtoassesstheirprogress, he discovered stories may be found at her website and three printed collections. The Aphorisms of Kherishdar, written from the point of view of The Calligrapher which concentrates mostly on the positives of the The Admonishments of Kherishdar civilization, while The Admonishments of Kherishdar focuses on the criminals and malcontents, who all give their impressions of Shame, the embodiment of justice in Ai-Naidar society and charged personally by The Emperor with Correcting individual behavior

so it comes in line with Society, and the novel Black Blossomin which Shame is dispatched to correct an entire major house, and The Calligrapher follows to keep him sane.
